Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Priority

Applicant's claim for priority has not been perfected. The statement in the response filed November 27, 2007 that "the international application filed on October 26, 2003 was filed with a translation" is not sufficient. A certified translation must be filed in this application. Accordingly, for examination purposes the effective filing date for this application is October 28, 2003.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The rejection under the 35 USC 112 with respect to the failure to comply with the written description requirement is withdrawn in view of amendment and comments supplied on November 27, 2007.

The rejection of the claims regarding the scope of enablement is withdrawn in view of the explicit recitation of the limitation 4-15% by weight found on page 5 of the specification. Applicant's comments regarding examples 1 and 5 are not convincing because those examples do not have rare earth contents of 4% and 15% as set forth in the response of November 27, 2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102 and 103

The rejections over the Du reference and the Dunne reference are withdrawn in view of the arguments presented in the response of November 27, 2007.

The following new rejection is applicable:

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over CN 1382613 cited by applicant.

The instantly claimed invention involves a rare earth zeolite composition, method for the production thereof and cracking process using this catalyst.

CN 1382613 discloses a zeolite Y rare-earth composition containing 4-15% rare-earth, substantially as claimed herein by applicant. The reference discloses a unit cell constant on the order of 2.450-2.458 nm, as claimed by applicant. The reference teaches an equilibrium unit cell constant of 2.432-2.438 nm after being treated under severe conditions of 100% steam at 800C for 17 hours, which compares favorably with the instant claim recitation of 2.435 nm. Since there is overlap between the reference recitation and the instant claims, arrival at the claimed invention would have been obvious because it is well within the skill of the artisan to operate within the parameters of a disclosed process and find the optimal range therein. The material is produced in the same manner as that set forth in the instant claims. Although the reference does not specifically recite the addition of binder, clay, slurring, etc., this method is notoriously well-known to the practitioner in the zeolite art, and it is well within the skill of the artisan to select the conventional method for production of the final catalyst composition. Such conventional teachings are fairly suggested by much of the prior art of record in the instant application. Further, the reference teaches the claimed utility of the catalyst in cracking processes, and the skilled artisan is more than capable of selecting which processes need to be conducted, i.e. cracking residual oils. See particularly claims 1-3, page 2, lines 23-27, page 3, lines 16-21, page 2, line 28 – page 3, line 15 and examples 1-8.

Applicant cannot rely upon the foreign priority papers to overcome this rejection because a translation of said papers has not been made of record in accordance with 37 CFR 1.55. See MPEP § 201.15.

Double Patenting

The obviousness-type double patenting rejection has been withdrawn in view of the terminal disclaimer filed November 27, 2007. The terminal disclaimer is proper and has been accepted.

Conclusion

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.
